Genealogists and historians have long toiled with poor quality microfilm and microfiche. But when one sees the original document at an archive, one wonders why the copies aren’t as clear and readable as the originals.

Why can’t the copies be clear and legible?

ArkivDigital offers genealogists and interested historians an opportunity to view the original documents in a new way. We are photographing the original documents in color with a digital camera.

By using new technology, we are offering new opportunities for you to learn about your ancestors in the best possible way. Black, hard to read microfiche and digitalized microfilms belong to history. ArkivDigital’s subscription service provides an easy way to see the original documents.

It is easy to discover new facts about your ancestors!

Many of the old documents contain ugly spots and display the ravages of time. With our color images, there is no difficulty reading documents damaged by moisture.

Comparison between a black/white image and a color image. Algutsrum Cl:2 s.135

With an ArkivDigital online subscription, you can sit at home in front of your computer and research your family history. You have access to all our digital color images and we continually add new records. Every month about 600,000 (1,200,000 pages) new images are added to ArkivDigital’s online archive.

Many exciting things will be happening in the future and much more than church books will be available to help you discover more about your family’s history.

In the church books, you find the foundation for your research. You find names and key dates such as birth dates. It is the foundation for building your family tree.

But when you begin to research in other record types, your ancestors become alive and you begin to know them.

In this document, you will find what is available in ArkivDigital’s online archive in addition to the “usual” church books. This summary is organized by county and shows what is currently available. (August 2014).
